

The Tham Luang Cave Rescue Incident: An Utopian Model for Humanity in the Globalized Context

This is the retrospective analysis of the Tham Luang Cave Rescue Incident at Chiang Rai, Thailand, one of the world's most complex and gruelling rescue operations, which sparked celebration of "mission impossible" from around the world. The lecture will discuss the operation's manifold dimensions, locally and globally. How and why did this operation stir up solidarity and humanity at its best as an Utopian model in the context of a Globalized World.

Prof. Dr. Trisilpa Boonkhachorn, Chulalongkorn University (Bangkok), is currently Visiting Professor of Thai Studies (Winter Semester 2018/19) at the Asia-Africa Institute, University of Hamburg.

Place: Asien-Afrika-Institut, Room 123

Time: Thursday, 24 January 2019, 18:15